FURNITURE AND GUESTS' FLOWS

We propose that the cooking workshops (assisted buffets) should be of 7 modules each. On this way, we can work better spaced out taking care of the health security distances and safety control will be better managed.

The cooking workshops configuration:

- 3 modules with a shelf placed as closest as possible to the kitchen access, followed by 4 modules with a flat plate. They are delimited by catenaries that mark the direction of the queue and, on the floor, the safety separation lines among the guests.
- Each module has its safety screen. This protection assures no direct contact between the client and the gastronomy.
- At the beginning of the buffet line, a gel dispenser for the use of customers will be provided.
- By the bar counters are also placed the floor marks for the guests to keep the distance among them.
- Our staff will obviously wear protective gloves and the proper facial masks.
- At the rest of the work areas such kitchen, office, laundry and canteen, we will follow the same health and safety regulations + Covid-19 protocols.

MENU CARDS

The menu cards will be removed from the tables and buffet lines, and it will only work with QR code.

GASTRONOMIC SUGGESTION
